

Paying Students

In order to select the correct process for paying a student, it's important to consider:

For example, ask yourself:

If the student is receiving a one time payment, is this within the scope of their academic studies?

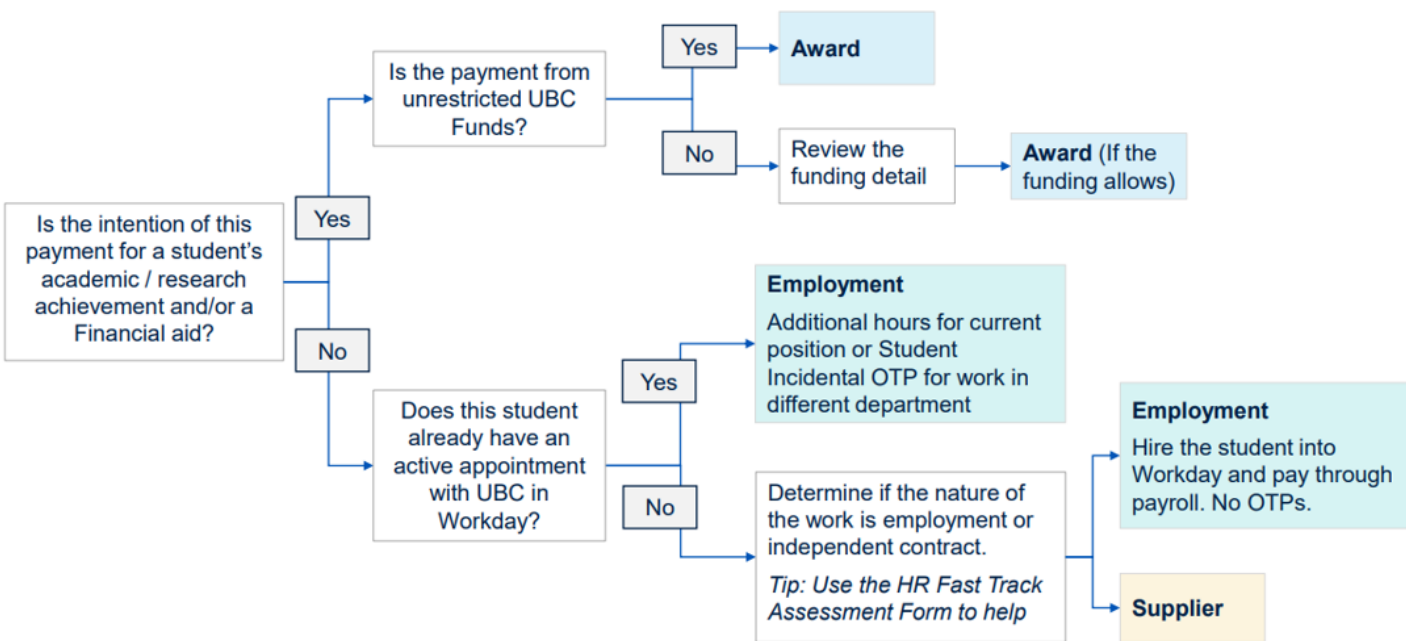

OR

If the student is receiving a one time payment, is this a result of performing work that is considered employment?

OR

Are you reimbursing the student for expenses they've incurred?

Consult the decision making process for paying students:

If reimbursing a student for an expense, consider the following:

